

HttpOnly cookies in .NET 2.0

Cite as: Martin Paul Eve, "HttpOnly cookies in .NET 2.0", eve.gd: Martin Paul Eve, June 26, 2007, <https://doi.org/10.59348/75sxs-sqj29>.

This is a well known trick that I just wanted to share as it is so crucial in preventing effective XSS attacks in Internet Explorer (and hopefully soon FireFox).

Anyway, the method is simple, whack this under the <system.web> section of your web.config file:

```
<httpCookies httpOnlyCookies="true" requireSSL="false" domain="" />
```

Tada!