

Guardian Q&A Summary: Life After a PhD

Cite as: Martin Paul Eve, "Guardian Q&A Summary: Life After a PhD", eve.gd: Martin Paul Eve, April 28, 2011, <https://doi.org/10.59348/yaa03-2mq44>.

A summary of the Guardian Q&A session, 'Life After a PhD' for which I was a panelist, is now available over on the Guardian Higher Education Network.

Of particular interest, in my view, is Tennie Videler's reference to ASHPIT; certainly a lead I am hoping to follow up. Keep your eyes peeled for their third policy day.

 University Arches

I'm also quite amused that my aside on Wittgenstein made it into the summary; a not-so-subtle condemnation of publish-or-perish, even if the point has been made before and, in fact, I really enjoy writing in order to be read.

Anyway, head over and have a read.

Featured image by Katherine Lynn under a CC-BY-NC-ND license.