As I'm preparing to speak tomorrow at the Literature off the Page conference, I was, as usual, creating a set of slides for my talk. As I'm looking at the novels of Jennifer Egan, I decided to create some diagrams that show clearly the features of the novels that I am referring to. However, I also decided that this would be a good opportunity to upload this kind of material to Figshare for the first time. Indeed, feel free to re-use, so long as you cite, as per the Creative Commons Attribution license.

This kind of peripheral material, not strictly as scholarly as the rest of my writing, makes its way into presentations and then is usually discarded. Figshare seems an interesting way for that material to somehow be preserved, in case it is of interest to anybody, at a later date.
