

The Learning Experience out today on Tici Taci and my book has gone to print at Stanford University Press

Cite as: Martin Paul Eve, "The Learning Experience out today on Tici Taci and my book has gone to print at Stanford University Press", eve.gd: Martin Paul Eve, April 26, 2019, <https://doi.org/10.59348/f52m7-9xv73>.

I have a music release/EP out on Tici Taci records today, called The Learning Experience.

Privacy policy

Available for purchase at:

- Juno Download
- Beatport

- Traxsource
- Amazon

What the critics/DJs are sayin':

- "This has track of the year all over if for me."
- "One of my faves from the year so far."
- "This is a terrific release. Remixes are stellar (naturally) and will go down a storm. But for me the standout is Martin's original of Ratholin'. Very, very funky and the vocal works a treat."
- "This is super sick, will definitely play in sets, super strong release all around!"
- "You know what? Think this is one of the best Tici Taci releases so far"

I also have other exciting news! Close Reading with Computers has now gone to print at Stanford University Press ahead of its release in June. Hurrah!

CLOSE READING

with

Textual Scholarship,
Computational Formalism, and David Mitchell's Cloud Atlas

COMPUTERS

MARTIN PAUL EVE