It has been a pretty epic editing process and one that I would not be in a hurry to repeat any time soon, but I am pleased to say that the volume that I am editing with Jonathan Gray is pretty much ready to go back to The MIT Press and should be done this month. Below is the chapter table of contents for Old Traditions and New Technologies: The Pasts, Presents, and Futures of Open Scholarly Communications. The book should be open access when it finally gets there.
